Item 4. Advisory Business

TIM provides financial planning and investment management services through a series of asset management platform offerings. Prior to engaging TIM to provide any of the foregoing investment advisory services, the client is required to enter into one or more written agreements with TIM, setting forth the terms and conditions under which TIM renders its services (collectively the “Agreement”).

TIM has been in business since 1998 and is principally owned by John Edward Foster II and Todd Michael Foster. As of December 31, 2025, the firm had $1,352,142,086 in assets under management. Although TIM offers non-discretionary services, that vast majority of its assets were managed on a discretionary basis (92%).

This Disclosure Brochure describes the business of TIM. Certain sections will also describe the activities of Supervised Persons. Supervised Persons are any of TIM’s officers, partners, directors (or other persons occupying a similar status or performing similar functions), or employees, or any other person who provides investment advice on TIM’s behalf and is subject to TIM’s supervision or control.

Financial Planning and Consulting Services

TIM offers its clients a broad range of comprehensive financial planning services. Income tax preparation services are available from an independent tax and accounting firm. These services are only offered to certain ongoing investment management clients, as described below.

Investment Management Services

Clients can engage TIM to manage all or a portion of their assets on a discretionary basis. The firm offers three different levels of investment management services, which are discussed below:

- TIM Basic - This is a service where clients have TIM manage their employer-sponsored retirement plans. TIM Basic is only available to clients who are unable to take fees out of their employer-sponsored retirement accounts and is the only service these clients are able to select. Under this program, the Firm offers one actively traded investment model portfolio, which generally consists of mutual funds and exchange-traded funds (“ETFs”). The program also consists of weekly commentary and weekly webcasts and is targeted to aviation professionals designed to give them an understanding of their employer-sponsored retirement plans. For clients who wish to subscribe to TIM’s commentary and webcast and receive model portfolio trade allocations but retain the authority to trade their accounts, TIM offers a Basic subscription service with allocations but no investment supervisory or investment management services. Moreover, the Firm’s investment professionals are available to clients in this program to answer any questions. This program does not include financial planning, and clients are able to engage the firm for financial planning at an additional fee.
- TIM Portfolio - The Firm has a more enhanced offering to TIM Basic, known as “TIM Portfolio,” which is a more comprehensive investment management program. TIM Portfolio is available to clients whose employer airlines are able to take fees out directly from their employer-sponsored retirement accounts. TIM Portfolio is also available for a variety of accounts including Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs), trust accounts, individual and joint accounts, and other accounts that TIM may accept in its discretion for investment management services. TIM Portfolio includes all the same benefits as TIM Basic but offers clients the opportunity to invest in one of the five model portfolios, which generally consist of mutual funds and ETFs, and are managed by the Firm based on the client’s age and risk tolerance. In addition, while TIM’s advisers are available to answer questions, TIM Portfolio clients also have one scheduled annual checkup call per year with the Firm to discuss developments in their financial situations. This program does not include financial planning, and clients are able to engage the firm for financial planning at an additional fee.

- TIM Premier - The Firm's most encompassing service offering is TIM Premier, which offers clients a more robust wealth management platform that includes all the services of TIM Portfolio. TIM Premier is available to clients whose employer airlines are able to take fees out directly from their employer-sponsored retirement accounts. TIM Premier is also available for a variety of accounts including Individual Retirement Accounts (IRAs), trust accounts, individual and joint accounts, and other accounts that TIM may accept in its discretion for investment management services. While the model portfolios available to TIM Premier clients are generally comprised of mutual funds and ETFs, TIM may incorporate other types of securities into TIM Premier client accounts, as appropriate for the client's investment objectives. Moreover, in addition to receiving a scheduled annual call to review their financial plan, TIM Premier clients also receive scheduled quarterly check-in calls. TIM Premier offers clients financial planning, insurance needs analysis, tax preparation provided by an independent tax and accounting firm (discussed in Item 14), estate planning consultation provided by an independent law firm (discussed in Item 14), and social security optimization services, which are included in the overall fee.

Clients are advised to promptly notify TIM if there are changes in their financial situation or investment objectives or if they wish to impose any reasonable restrictions upon TIM's management services. TIM Portfolio and Premier clients can impose reasonable restrictions on the management of their account if, in TIM's sole discretion, the conditions will not materially impact the performance of a portfolio strategy or prove overly burdensome to its management efforts.

Information Regarding Potential Conflicts of Interest

Although we seek to avoid them, our firm has actual or potential conflicts of interest arising from our advisory services. These include, but are not limited to:

- Conflicts related to allocating time and resources between client accounts, allocation of brokerage commissions and investment opportunities generally. For further information on our brokerage and allocation policies, and related conflicts of interest, please refer to Item 12 below.
- Conflicts related to asset-based fees. At times our investment professionals will recommend that a client move assets from another investment account to one managed by our firm. This would result in a higher total advisory fee for that investment professional and generate revenue for the firm. See the disclosure in Item 4 discussing the recommendation of rollovers and transfers to TIM for more information. There is a conflict of interest whenever we encourage clients to move their assets to our firm. For further information, please refer to Item 5 which discusses the fees we earn when providing advisory services.
- Conflicts related to investing in securities recommended to clients and contemporaneous trading of securities (i.e., personal trading) by the firm and its related persons. Please refer to Item 11 for further information.
- Conflicts related to third parties. When appropriate, we will recommend third parties to advise a client on matters including but not limited to: legal, tax or accounting advice. These recommendations are sometimes made because of existing relationships our firm and its employees have with these groups or individuals. We do not currently have any formal solicitor or referral arrangements.

Actual or potential conflicts of interest generally can be addressed in several ways, including prohibiting the conduct that gives to the conflict of interest, implementing procedures to prevent a person from gaining or utilizing knowledge that potentially give rise to a conflict; establishing parameters for conduct that are designed to protect client interests or limit the benefit that creates the conflict of interest, or disclosing the conflict of interest to our clients.

Our firm has adopted a Code of Ethics. (Please refer to Item 11 below for further information on our Code of Ethics) and we also have policies and procedures in place to mitigate and address conflicts of interest. We believe that such policies and procedures are reasonably designed to treat clients equitably and to advance the best interests of the clients. The clients' best interest is paramount in any situation involving a conflict of interest.

Recommending Rollovers and Transfers to TIM

Our firm has an inherent conflict of interest in recommending you rollover or transfer your accounts to an account managed by us since we have an incentive to generate compensation for the firm.

When we provide investment advice to you regarding your retirement plan account or individual retirement account, we are fiduciaries within the meaning of Title I of the Employee Retirement Income Security Act and/or the Internal Revenue Code, as applicable, which are laws governing retirement accounts. The way we make money creates some conflicts with your interests, so we operate under a special rule that requires us to act in your best interest and not put our interest ahead of yours.

Under this special rule's provisions, we must:

- Meet a professional standard of care when making investment recommendations (give prudent advice);
- Never put our financial interests ahead of yours when making recommendations (give loyal advice);
- Avoid misleading statements about conflicts of interest, fees, and investments;
- Follow policies and procedures designed to ensure that we give advice that is in your best interest;
- Charge no more than is reasonable for our services; and
- Give you basic information about conflicts of interest.

It is important that you understand the differences between these types of accounts and to decide whether a rollover is best for the client. Prior to proceeding, if you have any questions, please contact the firm's Chief Compliance Officer, or call TIM's main number as listed on the cover page of this brochure.

Item 5. Fees and Compensation

TIM offers its services on a fee basis, which depending on the program selected, includes either fixed fees or fees based upon assets under management. Additionally, certain of TIM's Supervised Persons, in their individual capacities, offer insurance products under a commission arrangement as they feel appropriate given the client's individual needs and circumstances.

Investment Management Fee (also referred to as "Advisory Fee")

TIM's annual Advisory Fee is exclusive of, and in addition to, brokerage commissions, transaction fees, and other related costs and expenses that are incurred by the client, as discussed below. TIM does not, however, receive any portion of these commissions, transaction fees, and costs. Fees are negotiable at TIM's discretion.

TIM Basic

TIM Basic is a service where the Firm provides model portfolio trade allocations, weekly commentary, and weekly webcasts targeted to aviation professionals.

For clients who engage the Firm for TIM Basic, TIM charges an annual fee of $625 for pilots and $315 for flight attendants and ground personnel. This fee is paid annually, in advance.

For TIM Basic clients who also have additional i-Shares-only, Municipal Bond-only, or Annuity accounts managed by TIM, TIM charges an annual asset based advisory fee which is prorated and billed quarterly in advance, based on the market value of the assets on the last day of the prior quarter. The current annual fee schedule for these account types is: iShares-only accounts: .25% ; Municipal Bond-only accounts: .25% ; For Ameritas annuity accounts (where TIM provides investment advice with respect to subaccounts or allocation decisions) the fee is .25% for Portfolio clients and is charged based on the Premier tiered fee below. These fees are negotiable and are described in the client agreement and/or schedule provided at account opening.

TIM Portfolio

TIM Portfolio is an investment management program that includes the TIM Basic benefits and provides clients access to one of the Firm's model portfolios based on age and risk tolerance. Clients also receive one scheduled annual checkup call to discuss developments in their financial situation. TIM Portfolio does not include financial planning, which is available for an additional fee (see "Additional Fees" below)

For TIM Portfolio clients, the firm charges an flat annual asset-based fee of 0.25% of the value of the assets under management. This annual fee is prorated and charged quarterly, in advance, based upon the market value of the assets being managed by TIM on the last day of the previous quarter.

PORTFOLIO VALUE	BASE FEE
All Assets Under Management	0.25%

TIM Premier

TIM Premier is the Firm's most encompassing offering. It includes the services of TIM Portfolio, may incorporate other types of securities as appropriate for client objectives, and includes scheduled quarterly check-in calls and financial planning. TIM Premier also includes insurance needs analysis and certain coordinated services provided by independent third parties (e.g., tax preparation and estate planning consultation), as further discussed in Item 14.

For TIM Premier clients, the Firm charges an annual asset-based fee that includes various financial planning services as discussed above in Item 4. This Fee is prorated and charged quarterly, in advance, based upon the market value of the assets being managed by TIM on the last day of the previous quarter. This annual fee varies depending upon the market value of the assets under TIM's management as follows:

Up to $250,000	1.30%
$250,000.01 - $1,000,000	1.00%
$1,000,000.01 - $2,000,000	0.75%
above $2,000,000.01	0.50%

TIM aggregates household accounts to determine the lowest percentage if all accounts are managed as one relationship.

Because clients may receive similar advice or model allocations while paying different fees, the Firm has a conflict of interest to recommend higher-fee programs or allocate more time and attention to higher-fee relationships. The Firm addresses this conflict by disclosing material program differences and fees, basing program recommendations on client needs and requested scope, applying a consistent investment process, documenting and supervising program recommendations and any negotiated fees, and periodically reviewing whether the selected program remains appropriate.

Financial Planning Fees

For TIM Basic and TIM Portfolio clients, TIM charges a fixed fee for preparation of a financial plan ($2,250) and review of a financial plan ($500). As discussed above, these financial services are included for TIM Premier clients at no additional fee.

Prior to engaging TIM to provide financial planning, the client is required to enter into a written agreement with TIM setting forth the terms and conditions of the engagement. TIM does not require payment until completion of these services.

Additional Fees and Expenses

In addition to the advisory fees paid to TIM, clients also incur certain charges imposed by other third parties, such as broker-dealers, custodians, trust companies, banks and other financial institutions (collectively "Financial Institutions"). These additional charges can include securities brokerage commissions, transaction fees, custodial fees, charges imposed directly by a mutual fund or ETF in a client's account as disclosed in the fund's prospectus (e.g., fund management fees and other fund expenses), deferred sales charges, odd-lot differentials, transfer taxes, wire transfer and electronic fund fees and other fees and taxes on brokerage accounts and securities transactions. The Firm's brokerage practices are described at length in Item 12, below.

Fee Debit

Clients generally provide TIM with the authority to directly debit their accounts for payment of the Firm's investment advisory fees. The Financial Institutions that act as qualified custodian for client accounts have agreed to send statements to clients not less often than quarterly detailing all account transactions, including any amounts paid to TIM. Alternatively, clients can elect to have TIM send them an invoice for direct payment.

Fees for Management During Partial Quarters of Service

For the initial period of investment management services, the fees are calculated on a pro rata basis. The Agreement between TIM and the client will continue in effect until terminated by either party pursuant to the terms of the Agreement. TIM's fees are prorated through the date of termination and any remaining balance is charged or refunded to the client, as appropriate.

Clients may make additions to and withdrawals from their account at any time, subject to TIM's right to terminate an account. Additions may be in cash or securities provided that TIM reserves the right to liquidate any transferred securities or decline to accept particular securities into a client's account. Clients may withdraw account assets on notice to TIM, subject to the usual and customary securities settlement procedures. However, TIM designs its portfolios as long-term investments, and the withdrawal of assets could impair the achievement of a client's investment objectives. If notified in advance, TIM will consult with its clients about the options and ramifications of transferring securities. However, clients are advised that when transferred securities are liquidated, they are subject to transaction fees, fees assessed at the mutual fund level (i.e. contingent deferred sales charge) and/or tax ramifications.

If assets are deposited into or withdrawn from an account after the inception of a quarter for TIM Portfolio or TIM Premier clients, the fee payable with respect to such assets will be adjusted or prorated based on the number of days remaining in the quarter. TIM Basic clients pay a fixed annual fee regardless of the amount of assets under management, and as such no adjustments are made based on inflows to or outflows from the account.

Item 6. Performance-Based Fees and Side-by-Side Management

TIM does not provide any services for performance-based fees. Performance-based fees are those based on a share of capital gains on or capital appreciation of the assets of a client.

The Firm offers clients different advisory programs with different service levels and fee arrangements, including TIM Basic (non-discretionary; clients implement and monitor their own accounts), TIM Portfolio (model-portfolio access for an annual asset-based fee), and TIM Premier (investment management and financial planning for a tiered asset-based fee).

Because clients may receive similar advice or model allocations while paying different fees, the Firm has a conflict of interest to recommend higher-fee programs or allocate more time and attention to higher-fee relationships. The Firm addresses this conflict by disclosing material program differences and fees, basing program recommendations on client needs and requested scope, applying a consistent investment process, documenting and supervising program recommendations and any negotiated fees, and periodically reviewing whether the selected program remains appropriate

Item 7. Types of Clients

TIM primarily provides its services to individuals, including high net worth individuals.

Minimum Fee

For TIM Portfolio and TIM Premier clients, TIM generally imposes a minimum annual fee of $600. TIM, in its sole discretion, may waive its minimum annual fee based upon certain criteria including anticipated future earning capacity, anticipated future additional assets, dollar amount of assets to be managed, related accounts, account composition, pre-existing client, account retention, and pro bono activities.

Item 8. Methods of Analysis, Investment Strategies and Risk of Loss

Methods of Analysis

TIM's primary methods of analysis include aspects of fundamental and technical analysis.

Fundamental analysis involves the fundamental financial condition and competitive position of a company. TIM will analyze the financial condition, capabilities of management, earnings, new products and services, as well as the company's markets and position amongst its competitors in order to determine the recommendations made to clients. The primary risk in using fundamental analysis is that while the overall health and position of a company may be good, market conditions may negatively impact the shares of the company.

Technical analysis involves the analysis of past market data rather than specific company data in determining the recommendations made to clients. Technical analysis may involve the use of charts to identify market patterns and trends which may be based on investor sentiment rather than the fundamentals of the company. More specifically, the firm may rely on charting, where the firm reviews charts of market and security activity in an attempt to identify when the market is moving up or down, to predict how long the trend will last and when it might reverse. The primary risk in using technical analysis is that spotting historical trends may not help to predict such trends in the future. Even if the trend will eventually reoccur, there is no guarantee that TIM will be able to accurately predict such a reoccurrence.

Investment Strategies

As further explained in its response to Item 4, the firm offers three different asset management programs: TIM Basic, TIM Portfolio, and TIM Premier. All three programs offer investors the ability to invest in one or more of the firm's proprietary model portfolios (the number of available portfolios depends on the program).

TIM follows a proactive tactical asset allocation strategy to manage portfolios. The firm closely monitors its holdings for relative performance, following economic and technical indicators and using a strict risk management discipline. There will be times where portfolio turnover will increase with volatility. Overall, the firm seeks to keep turnover low while maintaining returns.

Using this strategy, the firm allocates its model portfolios among several asset classes, including small caps, mid-caps, large-caps, international and bonds. The firm starts with an appropriate asset allocation according to the client's risk tolerance, age and goals and then adjusts the allocations as it sees fit. This strategy allows TIM to be overweight in asset classes it feels will outperform, and to underweight those it feels will underperform. Rebalancing is used to take profits on positions when the firm feels the market is approaching a short-term opportunity.

As indicated above, TIM portfolios are generally managed utilizing a combination of strategic and tactical asset allocation strategies. Clients generally work with the firm to create an investor policy statement (IPS) to set the strategic mix of assets for inclusion in the client's holdings. The percentage of weighting that each asset class has over the long term is known as the strategic asset allocation. This allocation is the mix of assets and weights that help an investor reach their specific goals over the long term. Tactical asset allocation is an active management portfolio strategy that shifts the percentage of assets held in various categories to take advantage of market pricing anomalies or strong market sectors. The result of TIM's choice to take an active stance on the strategic asset allocation itself means that your target weight for certain assets may drift from the original asset allocation for short periods of time to allow the firm to capitalize on the market or economic opportunities.

TIM has a basket of indicators it uses to help identify long term trend changes. If the long-term trend turns down, TIM downshifts the portfolios by selling certain holdings for a more conservative posture. Once the firm's indicators have pointed to a sustainable market "uptrend", TIM will reinvest according to the agreed allocation.

TIM primarily allocates assets within the model portfolios among mutual funds and ETFs. For TIM Premier clients, TIM also offers clients the opportunities to invest in other types of securities, depending on the client's individual objectives.

As part of its management philosophy, the firm uses the following strategies:

- Long term purchases: The firm may rely on this technique when it believes securities to be currently undervalued and/or it wants exposure to a particular asset class over time (regardless of the current projection for that class). These securities are typically purchased with the idea of holding them in a client's account for a year or longer.
- Short term purchases: When TIM uses this strategy, the firm purchases securities with the intention of selling them within a year. TIM employs this technique when it believes that conditions will result in a price swing in the securities purchased. This strategy can result in more frequent trading, which in turn can raise the brokerage costs incurred by the client.

Risks of Loss

General Risk of Loss

Investing in securities involves the risk of loss. Clients should be prepared to bear such loss.

Market Risks

The profitability of a significant portion of TIM's recommendations may depend to a great extent upon correctly assessing the future course of price movements of stocks and bonds. There can be no assurance that TIM will be able to predict those price movements accurately.

Risks Associated with Tactical Asset Allocation Strategies

Tactical asset allocation is an active management portfolio strategy that shifts the percentage of assets held in various categories to take advantage of market pricing anomalies or strong market sectors. This strategy theoretically allows portfolio managers to create extra value by taking advantage of certain situations in the marketplace. It is as a moderately active strategy since managers return to the portfolio's original strategic asset mix once reaching the desired short-term profit.

Like all active management strategies, there is the risk that TIM strategies may underperform its benchmark or the market if the portfolio manager does not correctly identify market opportunities, e.g., your portfolio may overperform or underperform the market or the strategy's benchmark depending on the portfolio's manager accuracy. Furthermore, in our efforts to outperform a benchmark and achieve higher returns for investors, investors' portfolios may deviate from the original risk characteristics and/or the portfolios benchmarks. No strategy offered by our firm guaranteed positive results and past performance is not indicative of future results.

Mutual Funds and ETFs

An investment in a mutual fund or ETF (including i-Shares) involves risk, including the loss of principal. Mutual fund and ETF shareholders are necessarily subject to the risks stemming from the individual issuers of the fund's underlying portfolio securities. Such shareholders also may be liable for taxes on any fund-level capital gains received in taxable accounts, as mutual funds and ETFs are required by law to distribute capital gains in the event that they sell securities for a profit that cannot be offset by a corresponding loss.

Shares of mutual funds are generally distributed and redeemed on an ongoing basis by the fund itself or a broker acting on its behalf. The trading price at which a share is transacted is equal to a fund's stated daily per share net asset value ("NAV"), plus any shareholders' fees (e.g., sales loads, purchase fees, redemption fees). The per share NAV of a mutual fund is calculated at the end of each business day, although the actual NAV fluctuates with intraday changes to the market value of the fund's holdings. The trading prices of a mutual fund's shares may differ significantly from the NAV during periods of market volatility, which may, among other factors, lead to the mutual fund's shares trading at a premium or discount to NAV.

Shares of ETFs are listed on securities exchanges and transacted at negotiated prices in the secondary market. Generally, ETF shares trade at or near their most recent NAV, which is generally calculated at least once daily for indexed-based ETFs and more frequently for actively managed ETFs. However, certain inefficiencies may cause the shares to trade at a premium or discount to their pro rata NAV. There is also no guarantee that an active secondary market for such shares will develop or continue to exist. Generally, an ETF only redeems shares when aggregated as creation units (usually 50,000 shares or more). Therefore, if a liquid secondary market ceases to exist for shares of a particular ETF, a shareholder may have no way to dispose of such shares.

Municipal Bonds

Municipal Bonds are debt obligations generally issued to obtain funds for various public purposes, including the construction of public facilities. Municipal bonds pay a lower rate of return than most other types of bonds. However, because of a municipal bond's tax-favored status, investors should compare the relative after-tax return to the after-tax return of other bonds, depending on the investor's tax bracket. Investing in municipal bonds carries the same general risks as investing in bonds in general. Those risks include interest rate risk, reinvestment risk, inflation risk, market risk, call or redemption risk, credit risk, and liquidity and valuation risk.

Management Through Similarly Managed Accounts

TIM primarily manages portfolios by allocating portfolio assets among various securities on a discretionary basis using one or more of its proprietary investment strategies (collectively referred to as "investment strategy"). In so doing, TIM buys, sells, exchanges and/or transfers securities based upon the investment strategy.

TIM's management using the investment strategy complies with the requirements of Rule 3a-4 of the Investment Company Act of 1940, as amended. Rule 3a-4 provides similarly managed accounts, such as the investment strategy, with a safe harbor from the definition of an investment company.

Securities in the investment strategy are usually exchanged and/or transferred without regard to a client's individual tax ramifications. Certain investment opportunities that become available to TIM's clients may be limited. As further discussed in response to Item 12B (below), TIM allocates investment opportunities among its clients on a fair and equitable basis.

Risks Associated with Bitcoin-Based Strategies

A limited number of clients may be placed in separately managed accounts managed by an unaffiliated third-party investment adviser that seeks to provide tactical exposure to bitcoin through an exchange traded product that tracks a bitcoin index. Clients who participate may pay advisory fees to both TIM and the third party manager (in addition to the ETF's internal fees and expenses), which increases the overall cost of the arrangement. TIM conducts due diligence on the third party manager and monitors the relationship on an ongoing basis, but TIM does not control the day-to-day management decisions of the third party manager. Bitcoin is a digital representation of value that functions as a medium of exchange, a unit of account, or a store of value, but it does not have legal tender status. Bitcoin is not backed nor supported by any government or central bank. Bitcoin's price is completely derived by market forces of supply and demand, and it is more volatile than traditional currencies and financial assets. Investing in bitcoin-linked products, involves significant risks, including volatility, regulatory, market structure, , economic, technical, and cybersecurity risks, and bitcoin markets and venues may not provide the same protections as traditional securities markets.

- Volatility Risk: Bitcoin is a speculative and volatile investment asset. Investors should be prepared for volatile market swings and prolonged bear markets. Bitcoin can have higher volatility than other traditional investors such as stocks and bonds.
- Economic Risk: The economic risk associated with bitcoin is in the lack of widespread or continuing bitcoin adoption. The market and investors could decide that bitcoin should not be valued at the current market capitalization due to a variety of factors.
- Regulatory Risk: Bitcoin could be banned or highly regulated by governments that would deter investors from buying or holding bitcoin.
- Technical Risk: Bitcoin is a dynamic network with a codebase that is updated to add new security and functionality features. The updated code that is merged by the core developers could potentially have an error that threatens the security or functionality of the bitcoin network.
- Cybersecurity Risk: Bitcoin exchanges and wallets have been hacked and bitcoin has been stolen in the past. Although this does not impact people participating in the strategy since you will not be invested in bitcoin directly, this is a potential risk that bitcoin holders must be comfortable with when investing and holding bitcoin, and a widespread cybersecurity incident could impact the bitcoin market and cause significant price fluctuations.

Item 9. Disciplinary Information

TIM is required to disclose the facts of any legal or disciplinary events that are material to a client's evaluation of its advisory business or the integrity of management. TIM does not have any required disclosures to this Item.

Item 10. Other Financial Industry Activities and Affiliations

TIM is required to disclose any relationship or arrangement that is material to its advisory business or to its clients with certain related persons. TIM has described such relationships and arrangements below.

Affiliated Investment Adviser

TIM is under common control with its affiliated SEC registered investment adviser, RESQ Investment Partners, LLC ("RESQ Investment Partners") (SEC File No. 801-78822). Certain Supervised Persons of TIM also serve as portfolio managers for RESQ Investment Partners, which is the investment adviser to the RESQ Strategic Income Fund and the RESQ Dynamic Allocation Fund (the "RESQ Funds").

Because of this affiliation, a conflict of interest exists when TIM invests client assets in the RESQ Funds. Specifically, TIM's affiliate, RESQ Investment Partners, receives compensation for advisory services provided to the RESQ Funds, and TIM and/or its affiliates and certain Supervised Persons may receive indirect economic benefits to the extent client assets are invested in the RESQ Funds (including through advisory fees paid at the fund level). This financial incentive could create a conflict between TIM's interests and those of its clients.

Clients are not required to invest in the RESQ Funds. Pursuant to the Investment Management Agreement (IMA) and on a fully disclosed basis, clients may limit TIM's authority to invest assets into the RESQ Funds . . .

To the extent that client assets are invested in the RESQ Funds, clients do not pay a "dual" fee because TIM does not charge its investment management fee on any such assets invested in the RESQ Funds. While TIM and/or its Supervised Persons are indirectly compensated based on its or their affiliation with RESQ Investment Partners, which receives an advisory fee for services provided to the RESQ Funds, the firm does not believe this arrangement poses any additional material conflict of interest.

TIM seeks to mitigate this conflict by applying the same due diligence and ongoing monitoring process to the RESQ Funds that it applies to unaffiliated investment options, including considering reasonably available alternatives and periodically reviewing RESQ Fund investments for continued appropriateness.

Information about how RESQ Investment Partners is compensated by the RESQ Funds is available in funds' prospectus.

Affiliated Broker Dealer

TIM is under common control with, and certain principals (Todd Foster, John Greer, and Bryan Lee) maintain passive ownership of, a FINRA registered broker dealer, Vision 4 Fund Distributors ("Vision 4"), member FINRA/SIPC. Vision 4 acts as a distributor for certain mutual funds and may receive compensation in that capacity (e.g., distribution and or servicing-related compensation. This affiliation creates a conflict of interest to the extent TIM recommends mutual funds or other products for which Vision 4 serves as distributor, because Vision 4 may benefit financially from client investments in those products. Clients are not required to purchase and products through, or distributed by, Vision 4 and TIM considers reasonably available alternatives when making recommendations. TIM endeavors always to put the interest of its clients first as part of our fiduciary duty..

From time to time, TIM recommends mutual funds for which Vision 4 serves as distributor; in those circumstances, Vision 4 generally will waive any distributor compensation that would otherwise be payable in connection with a client's purchase through Vision 4, although Vision 4 may still receive other forms of compensation permitted in its distributor capacity depending on the product and share class.

TIM can provide additional information regarding this affiliation and related conflicts upon request.

Receipt of Insurance Product Commissions

Certain of TIM's Supervised Persons, in their individual capacities, are also licensed insurance agents with various insurance companies, and in such capacity, will recommend, on a fully disclosed commission basis, the purchase of certain insurance products. While TIM does not sell such insurance products to its investment advisory clients, TIM does permit its Supervised Persons, in their individual capacities as licensed insurance agents, to sell insurance products to its investment advisory clients. A conflict of interest exists to the extent that TIM recommends the purchase of insurance products where TIM's Supervised Persons receive insurance commissions or other additional compensation.

We require representatives to disclose all outside business activities to our compliance team, and we evaluate whether such activities impair their ability to serve our clients objectively.

Item 11. Code of Ethics

TIM and persons associated with TIM ("Associated Persons") are permitted to buy or sell securities that it also recommends to clients consistent with TIM's policies and procedures. TIM has adopted a code of ethics that sets forth the standards of conduct expected of its associated persons and requires compliance with applicable securities laws ("Code of Ethics"). TIM's Code of Ethics contains written policies reasonably designed to prevent the unlawful use of material non-public information by TIM or any of its associated persons.

The Code of Ethics also requires that certain of TIM's personnel (called "Access Persons") report their personal securities holdings and transactions and obtain pre-approval of certain investments such as initial public offerings and limited offerings.

When TIM is engaging in or considering a transaction in any security on behalf of a client, no Access Person may effect for themselves or for their immediate family (i.e., spouse, minor children, and adults living in the same household as the Access Person) a transaction in that security unless:

- the transaction on behalf of the client has been completed;
- the transaction for the Access Person is completed as part of a batch trade (as defined below in Item 12) with clients; or
- a decision has been made not to engage in the transaction for the client.

These requirements are not applicable to: (i) direct obligations of the Government of the United States; (ii) money market instruments, bankers' acceptances, bank certificates of deposit, commercial paper, repurchase agreements and other high quality short-term debt instruments, including repurchase agreements; (iii) shares issued by mutual funds or money market funds; and (iv) shares issued by unit investment trusts that are invested exclusively in one or more mutual funds.

This Code of Ethics has been established recognizing that some securities trade in sufficiently broad markets to permit transactions by Access Persons to be completed without any appreciable impact on the markets of such securities. Therefore, under certain limited circumstances, exceptions may be made to the policies stated above. Clients and prospective clients may contact TIM to request a copy of its Code of Ethics by contacting TIM's Chief Compliance Officer at timcompliance@timgt.com.

Item 12. Brokerage Practices

TIM generally recommends that clients utilize the brokerage and clearing services of Charles Schwab & Co., Inc. ("Schwab") and/or Fidelity Institutional Wealth Services ("Fidelity") for investment management accounts.

Factors which TIM considers in recommending Schwab, Fidelity, or any other broker-dealer to clients include their respective financial strength, reputation, execution, pricing, research and service. Schwab and Fidelity enable TIM to obtain many mutual funds without transaction charges and other securities at nominal transaction charges. The commissions and/or transaction fees charged by Schwab and Fidelity may be higher or lower than those charged by other Financial Institutions.

The commissions paid by TIM's clients comply with TIM's duty to obtain "best execution." Clients may pay commissions that are higher than another qualified Financial Institution might charge to effect the same transaction where TIM determines that the commissions are reasonable in relation to the value of the brokerage and research services received. In seeking best execution, the determinative factor is not the lowest possible cost, but whether the transaction represents the best qualitative execution, taking into consideration the full range of a Financial Institution's services, including among others, the value of research provided, execution capability, commission rates, and responsiveness. TIM seeks competitive rates but may not necessarily obtain the lowest possible commission rates for client transactions.

TIM periodically and systematically reviews its policies and procedures regarding its recommendation of Financial Institutions considering its duty to obtain best execution. The client may direct TIM in writing to use a particular Financial Institution to execute some or all transactions for the client. In that case, the client will negotiate terms and arrangements for the account with that Financial Institution, and TIM will not seek better execution services or prices from other Financial Institutions or be able to “batch” client transactions for execution through other Financial Institutions with orders for other accounts managed by TIM (as described below). As a result, the client may pay higher commissions or other transaction costs or greater spreads, or receive less favorable net prices, on transactions for the account than would otherwise be the case. Subject to its duty of best execution, TIM may decline a client’s request to direct brokerage if, in TIM’s sole discretion, such directed brokerage arrangements would result in additional operational difficulties.

Transactions for each client generally will be effected independently, unless TIM decides to purchase or sell the same securities for several clients at approximately the same time. TIM may (but is not obligated to) combine or “batch” such orders to obtain best execution, to negotiate more favorable commission rates, or to allocate equitably among TIM’s clients differences in prices and commissions or other transaction costs that might not have been obtained had such orders been placed independently. Under this procedure, transactions will generally be averaged as to price and allocated among TIM’s clients pro rata to the purchase and sale orders placed for each client on any given day. To the extent that TIM determines to aggregate client orders for the purchase or sale of securities, including securities in which TIM’s Supervised Persons may invest, TIM generally does so in accordance with applicable rules promulgated under the Advisers Act and no-action guidance provided by the staff of the U.S. Securities and Exchange Commission. TIM does not receive any additional compensation or remuneration as a result of the aggregation. In the event that TIM determines that a prorated allocation is not appropriate under the particular circumstances, the allocation will be made based upon other relevant factors, which may include: (i) when only a small percentage of the order is executed, shares may be allocated to the account with the smallest order or the smallest position or to an account that is out of line with respect to security or sector weightings relative to other portfolio, with similar mandates; (ii) allocations may be given to one account over another account that has limitations in its investment guidelines that prohibit it from purchasing the security being allocated; (iii) if an account reaches an investment guideline limit and cannot participate in an allocation, shares may be reallocated to other accounts (this may be due to unforeseen changes in an account’s assets after an order is placed); (iv) with respect to sale allocations, allocations may be given to accounts low in cash; (v) in cases when a pro rata allocation of a potential execution would result in a de minimis allocation in one or more accounts, TIM may exclude the account(s) from the allocation and allocate the shares on a pro rata basis among the remaining accounts; or (vi) in cases where a small proportion of an order is executed in all accounts, shares may be allocated to one or more accounts on a random basis.

In some situations, we may be unable aggregate orders for all clients participating in a certain TIM strategy at the same time. For example, clients that participate in the same model at Fidelity and/or Schwab will be unable to have orders executed in the same block trade without the use of a prime broker. In these situations, we utilize a trade rotation strategy where we alternate between the broker/dealers. By employing this methodology, we seek to treat all accounts participating in a similar strategy fairly and equitably over time.

Consistent with obtaining best execution, brokerage transactions may be directed to certain broker-dealers in return for investment research products and/or services which assist TIM in its investment decision-making process. Such research generally will be used to service all of TIM’s clients, but brokerage commissions paid by one client may be used to pay for research that is not used in managing that client’s portfolio. The receipt of investment research products and/or services as well as the allocation of the benefit of such investment research products and/or services poses a conflict of interest because TIM does not have to produce or pay for the products or services.

Software and Support Provided by Financial Institutions

TIM receives access from Schwab and Fidelity, without cost to TIM, computer software and related systems support, which allow TIM to better monitor client accounts maintained at the respective custodian. TIM receives access to the software and related support without cost because TIM renders investment management services to clients that maintain assets at Schwab and Fidelity. The software and related systems support benefits TIM, but not its clients directly. In fulfilling its duties to its clients, TIM endeavors at all times to put the interests of its clients first. Clients should be aware, however, that TIM's receipt of economic benefits from a broker-dealer creates a conflict of interest since these benefits may influence TIM's choice of broker-dealer over another broker-dealer that does not furnish similar software, systems support, or services.

Additionally, TIM receives the following benefits from Schwab and Fidelity through their institutional divisions: receipt of duplicate client confirmations and bundled duplicate statements; access to a trading desk that exclusively services the respective institutional participants; access to block trading which provides the ability to aggregate securities transactions and then allocate the appropriate shares to client accounts; and access to an electronic communication network for client order entry and account information.

Item 13. Review of Accounts

TIM monitors clients' portfolios as part of an ongoing process while regular account reviews are conducted on at least a quarterly basis for Premier clients and annually for Portfolio clients. For those clients to whom TIM provides financial planning and/or consulting services, reviews are conducted on an "as needed" basis, or annually for TIM Premier clients. Such reviews are conducted by one of TIM's CFPs®. All investment advisory clients are encouraged to discuss their needs, goals, and objectives with TIM and to keep TIM informed of any changes thereto. TIM contacts ongoing investment advisory clients at least annually to review its previous services and/or recommendations and to discuss the impact of any changes in the client's financial situation and/or investment objectives.

Unless otherwise agreed upon, clients are provided with transaction confirmation notices and regular summary account statements directly from the broker-dealer or custodian for the client accounts. On a quarterly basis, TIM Premier clients will also receive a report from TIM that includes relevant account and/or market-related information, such as an inventory of account holdings and account performance. Clients should compare the account statements they receive from their custodian with those they receive from TIM. Those clients to whom TIM provides financial planning and/or consulting services will receive reports from TIM summarizing its analysis and conclusions upon request and as otherwise agreed to in writing by TIM.

Item 14. Client Referrals and Other Compensation

TIM is required to disclose arrangements under which it pays cash compensation to persons who refers clients to TIM. TIM has entered into written referral agreements with certain third parties ("Referring Parties") under which TIM pays a cash referral fee if a referred individual becomes a TIM advisory client. Referral fees are by TIM from its revenues (not as a separate charge to the client) and are 20% of the first years advisory fees actually received by TIM from the referred client. The existence and terms of the referral agreement creates a conflict of interest because the Referring Party has a financial incentive to recommend TIM.

When a client is referred to us by a referring party, the referring party provides the client with a copy of our Firm Brochure as required by the Investment Advisers Act of 1940. The client will also complete a Solicitor's Disclosure Statement document. If the referring party is an unaffiliated registered investment adviser firm, then the client will also receive a copy of the referring party's Form ADV Part 2 Disclosure Brochure. If a referred client enters into an investment management agreement with TIM, a referral fee is paid to the referring party. The referral relationship will not result in clients being charged any fees over and above the normal advisory fees charged for the advisory services provided. The referral agreements between TIM and referring parties are in compliance with state and federal securities rules regarding paid solicitor arrangements.

TIM may receive economic benefits from non-clients for providing advice or other advisory services to clients. This type of relationship poses a conflict of interest and any such relationship is disclosed in response to Item 12 (Brokerage Practices), above.

From time to time, TIM may receive marketing expense reimbursements or sponsorship support from distributors or sponsors of investment products in connection with client education events or seminars (for example, a sponsor may reimburse a portion of venue or meal costs). These arrangements create a conflict of interest because TIM has an incentive to maintain relationships with sponsors that provide such support. TIM does not condition recommendations on sponsorship, and TIM seeks to mitigate this conflict by (i) not permitting sponsors to influence investment advice, (ii) selecting sponsors based on educational value and logistics rather than product recommendations, and (iii) evaluating recommendations based on the client's objectives and the merits of the investment.

Relationship with Sonoran Tax & Accounting, LLC

TIM maintains a relationship with Sonoran Tax & Accounting, LLC ("Sonoran") whereby it refers certain of its clients to Sonoran for tax preparation services and also directs its TIM Premier clients to Sonoran for basic individual tax preparation as part of its overall service offering as discussed above in Item 4. While Sonoran is independent of and unaffiliated with TIM, a conflict of interest exists, in the form of an indirect economic benefit, to the extent that TIM and Sonoran refer their clients to one another and TIM may receive certain discounts for Sonoran's services relating to TIM clients.

The referral is provided solely as a convenience to the Client and does not constitute an endorsement, guarantee, or representation by TIM as to the third party's qualifications, competence, licensure, or performance. The Client retains sole discretion and responsibility to select, engage, and oversee any tax preparer, including conducting any diligence the Client deems appropriate.

The Client further acknowledges that TIM does not provide tax preparation services and does not prepare, sign, file, review, audit, or otherwise verify any tax return, tax filing position, or other tax-related work product prepared or performed by the third-party tax preparer. TIM does not assume, and expressly disclaims, any responsibility or liability for the acts, errors, omissions, advice, recommendations, or services of any such third party, including the accuracy or completeness of any tax returns or related documents.

Relationship with Knollmiller & Arenofsky, LLP

TIM maintains a relationship with the independent, third-party law firm of Knollmiller & Arenofsky, LLP ("Knollmiller") whereby it directs its TIM Premier clients to Knollmiller for basic estate planning consultation as part of its overall service offering as discussed above in Item 4. Knollmiller provides this consultation to TIM Premier clients at no cost to TIM or the client. Should the client wish to proceed with an estate plan, the client engages and pays the Knollmiller law firm directly for this service. While Knollmiller is independent of and unaffiliated with TIM, a conflict of interest exists in the form of an indirect economic benefit, to the extent that TIM and Knollmiller refer their clients to one another and TIM's clients may request that TIM manage additional account assets as identified in the actual estate planning process.

The referral is provided solely as a convenience to the Client and does not constitute an endorsement, guarantee, or representation by TIM as to the third party's qualifications, competence, licensure, or performance. The Client retains sole discretion and responsibility to select, engage, and oversee any tax preparer, including conducting any diligence the Client deems appropriate.

The Client acknowledges that TIM does not provide legal or estate planning services. Any estate planning work (including drafting or reviewing wills, trusts, powers of attorney, or other legal documents) is performed solely by an unaffiliated estate planning firm or attorney selected by the Client. TIM does not prepare, sign, file, review, audit, or otherwise verify any estate planning documents or legal work product, and expressly disclaims any responsibility or liability for the acts, errors, omissions, advice, or services of any such third party, including the accuracy, completeness, or enforceability of any estate planning documents

Client Testimonials

A testimonial includes any statement by a current client about the client's experience with TIM or its Supervised Persons. Testimonials presented on TIM's website or other marketing materials were provided by current clients of the firm. Clients were not compensated, directly or indirectly, in exchange for their testimonials. Because experiences are subjective and not all clients provide reviews, testimonials may not be representative of the experience of all clients and are not a guarantee of future performance or success. TIM may request feedback from clients and does not require that feedback be positive; however, TIM may choose whether to publish or highlight particular testimonials. Where required, TIM will provide clear and prominent disclosures in connection with the presentation of testimonials.

Item 15. Custody

TIM does not serve as a qualified custodian and encourages clients to maintain their assets with a qualified custodian, typically Schwab or Fidelity. TIM is deemed to have custody in certain circumstances, including when it has authority to deduct advisory fees directly from a client's custodial account. In addition, some clients may authorize TIM, through a standing letter of authorization ("SLOA") maintained with the custodian, to direct the custodian to disburse funds to a specified third party. Separately, in limited cases involving employer-sponsored retirement plan platforms, TIM may have client-authorized access credentials that permit trading or allocation changes within the plan. Clients should understand the scope of any authorization granted to TIM and may revoke or limit such authority at any time by written notice (and, where applicable, by updating authorizations with the custodian or plan provider).

The custodians recommended by TIM send a statement to the client, at least quarterly, indicating all amounts disbursed from the account including the amount of management fees paid directly to TIM. In addition, as discussed in Item 13, TIM also sends quarterly performance reports to certain clients. Clients should carefully review the statements sent directly by the Financial Institutions and compare them to those received from TIM. We urge you to carefully review your custodian's statements and compare such official custodial records to the account statements that we provide to you. Our statements vary from custodial statements based on accounting procedures, reporting dates, or valuation methodologies of certain securities. If you ever have a question about an entry on your TIM report(s), please call us immediately.

Surprise Independent Examination

With respect to any arrangement in which TIM's access to client assets could be deemed custody beyond fee deduction and SLOAs that satisfy applicable SEC conditions, TIM will comply with the custody rule requirements applicable to the specific facts and circumstances, which may include engaging an independent public accountant to conduct a surprise examination. Clients will receive account statements directly from their qualified custodian or retirement plan provider and should review those statements promptly. TIM does not accept physical possession of client funds or securities and does not move client assets except as authorized in writing by the client and implemented by the qualified custodian or plan provider.

Item 16. Investment Discretion

TIM is normally given the authority to exercise investment discretion on behalf of clients. TIM is considered to exercise investment discretion over a client's account if it can effect transactions for the client without first having to seek the client's consent. TIM is given this authority through a limited power-of-attorney included in the agreement between TIM and the client. Clients may request a limitation on this authority (such as certain securities not to be bought or sold). TIM takes discretion over the following activities:

- The securities to be purchased or sold;
- The amount of securities to be purchased or sold; and
- When transactions are made.

Item 17. Voting Client Securities

TIM is required to disclose if it accepts authority to vote client securities. TIM does not generally vote client securities on behalf of its clients and will do so only if agreed to in writing. Clients receive proxies directly from the Financial Institutions and may contact the firm with any questions by calling the number on the cover of this brochure.

Item 18. Financial Information

TIM does not require or solicit the prepayment of more than $1,200 in fees six months or more in advance. In addition, TIM is required to disclose any financial condition that is reasonably likely to impair its ability to meet contractual commitments to clients. At this time, we reasonably believe that our firm is able to meet all of our contractual commitments.
